

Selling rules confirmation

Rules for sellers

The Accountz Club team will regularly review the seller's sales situation, dispute/negative review rate in the store, and warn sellers that lower than the standards. If the store receives a large number of disputes/negative reviews, and are confirmed the problems to be caused by the seller's misbehavior, the seller will be punished following this regulation. (Misbehavior including but not limited to product quality problems; services not delivered as promised; false delivery; products that do not match the promise/description; the seller did not properly handle after-sales service and other factors.)

If the discrepancy between the listed accounts and the accounts sold is too large!

- Punishment includes adjusting the seller's fee rates, adjusting the seller's insurance, fines, sales limitation, and even a permanent ban.

Accountz Club reserves the right to remove listings without prior notice, take disciplinary action against the seller.

Rules for sellers and buyers

Accountz Club reserves the right to communicate with sellers as a mystery buyer to assess compliance and identify violations of rules.

Seller fees may vary individually for each seller and are dynamic, meaning they can change at any time without prior notice.

Responsibility of sellers

For all kinds of trade (meaning all the category sections available on Accountz Club), the seller must provide a complete description with risk tips before the delivery is issued and have a clear agreement record from the buyer about the risk accepted.

The seller is responsible for saving and providing before/after delivery proofs (Pictures or videos, clearly showing the delivery amount, delivered item, character name, linked information, and any available information of the related order). If the seller fails to provide a delivery certificate or any proof that the service is authentic and effective, all losses will be borne by the seller.

Each dispute between the buyer and the seller is individual, so the final decision on the extent of the seller's responsibility may differ significantly from the one written above. Established agreements between the seller and the buyer can be considered upon review of a dispute.

REFUND

Whether it will be refunded or not, and under what conditions, is up to the seller. However, the guidelines must be clear and unambiguous. They must be declared accordingly and must then be adhered to. A violation of the seller's own guidelines and concessions will result in a temporary or permanent suspension of the account.
